All Roads Lead to The Forest Theatre

When a committee of high school students went to the mayor four months ago and asked him to help them find a building for a club room, after spending weeks of his time and drawing upon his knowledge of local housing facilities, a knowledge which is considerable since he has been in the real estate business here for a number of years, the mayor wound up his search at the Forest Theater. The dressing room space under the stage could be put into condition for a club with the expenditure of a substantial sum of money. The place would have to be waterproofed. Heating and plumbing facilities would have to be provided. There was also the question of priorities. Because of these difficulties, the Forest Theater was not the ideal location, but at least it was available. However, if anybody had any better ideas—

The P.T.A. took up the hunt. A committee of women, enthusiastic for the club room project and eager to find a suitable location, combed the town, approaching possible landlords with such discouraging results that they finally called upon the various organizations of the town each to send a representative to a general meeting so the problem could be shared by the community.

The AWVS were the next to go house hunting. Last week they invited the mayor, representatives of the P.T.A., of the student body and others who had shown an interest to meet with them to view the results of their search—the Forest Theatre!

Rowntree Will Run for Re-election Allen Knight Announces Candidacy L. L. Dewar Will Not Enter Race

Bernard Rowntree, who has served almost nine years on the city council, announced this week that he would run for re-election April 11. Allen Knight, whose years of service on the Carmel Sanitary Board top those of Rowntree on the council. also announced himself a candidate for a seat on the city council. L. L. Dewar, appointed by Mayor P. A. McCreery in December 1942 to fill the council seat vacated by the resignation of Keith Evans, said yesterday that he would not run for election.

In his statement to the Pine Cone-Cymbal, Dewar said:

"Due to the pressure of private business I will not be a candidate. May I take this opportunity to thank the people of Carmel for the privilege of serving them and to thank the press for its co-operation during my tenure of office. I regret that this action is necessary."

Bernard Rowntree, who first came to Carmel in 1925 was elected to the city council April 1934, served as Commissioner of Lights and Water. In 1938 he ran again but failed of re-election. The following year he was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of Fred Bechdolt who had resigned. Running for council again in 1940 he was elected by 737 votes, a high poll since Keith Evans, polling the greatest number of votes, got 802. During this term of office he served as Commissioner of Police and Lights.

He has always commanded the respect and support of "old" Carmel because of his adherence to the proposition, "I came here because I liked the town the way it was. I assume that others have come for the same reason. Of course we cannot prevent the town from growing, but we can guide it in the direction in which we want it to grow." In the coming election he has the enthusiastic support of the two hold over councilmen with whom he served this last term, Mayor P. A. Mc-

"Side Saddle Cowpuncher" Discusses "No Life For A Lady" in Carmel Visit

By Irene Alexander

Carmel's outstanding guest writer of the past week was Mrs. Agnes Morley Cleaveland of Berkeley, who spoke before an interested audience on Wednesday afternoon, February 23, in the Village Book Shop on the how and why of her prize-winning book entitled, No Life for a Lady.

This distinguished record of pioneering experiences of a half-century ago in New Mexico was awarded, at the time of its publication in the fall of 1941, the $2,500 prize in the first of the Houghton Mifflin Life in America series and was greeted enthusiastically by critics here and in England.

The adventures and anedotes which make up No Life for a Lady had been told to friends many times by Mrs. Cleaveland but it was not until this sprightly little lady had reached her sixty-seventh year that she decided to set them down in book form.The immediate impetus for her labors was provided by an eighteen-year-old acquaintance who had never heard of a "livery stable," and was unable to visualize one until Mrs. Cleaveland translated it into "horse auto camp."

"It seemed high time," she declared, "to preserve for this new generation a few of the passing landmarks."

The first draft of her book was a 60,000-word opus containing forty-five of her best-remembered anecodes, which she sent off to the publishers, with no idea of competing for any prize, and promptly dismissed from her mind during the succeeding four months.

"I thought I had written all the words there were," she laughs. "And then here came the publisher's representative, insisting that I turn out at least 120,000 words, and make the book autobiographical. When I objected on the grounds that I was nobody, and only my material was important, he had an answer for that."

"'You know, Mrs. Cleaveland,' he rebuked me, 'modesty can reach such proportions that it becomes the quintessence of egotism'."

Accordingly, she set to work on the revised version, and from then on until No Life for a Lady was published and adjudged the prize-winning novel of the year, her adventures with her publishers were more or less hilarious. When it was suggested that she include her "love-life," she pointed out to them that New Mexico was her love, and anyway, what did the public expect for $3.00! Publishers in the past had been duped by writers of phoney pioneer stories, and hers left no stone unturned in establishing authenticity. A reference in the script to old-time dances where she had pinch-hit for the fiddler by playing the harmonica provided an opening for the serious board of Doubting-Thomases on one occasion, and there was nothing for the author to do but send out for a ten-cent mouth organ and electrify the staid gentlemen with a bit of ancient boogie-woogie. On other occasions she was astounded and amused by the Bostonian interpre-

Drama Group Picks Arsenic and Old Lace For Production

Arsenic and Old Lace, the clever and fast-moving farce-comedy which makes even murder hilarious, has been chosen by the Adult school dramatics group as its first production.

Rehearsals are now in progress under the direction of Mrs. Betty Stevens at the Sunset school auditorium, with regular meetings of the group at 7:30 p.m. each Monday and Thursday. The full cast of the play and the date of its opening will be announced shortly.

Forest Theatre Picked For Club, $2000 Is Needed

At a meeting of students, P.T.A. representatives, school authorities, city officials, the AWVS committee announced last week that they had found the dressing room space under the stage of the Forest Theater the best location available for housing the 'Teen Age Club for Carmel boys and girls.

It was also reported that a builder had been asked for an estimate of costs for getting the place into repair so that the young people could use it, and had given as approximate figure, $2,000.

The mayor, asked to preside over the meeting as temporary chairman, said:

1. That the city legally could not give financial aid to a private club.

2. The city-owned Forest Theater could not be rented or leased for the club rooms until a responsible group should approach the city council with a completely worked out plan.

At an assembly at the high school on the day following the meeting, the students voted to conduct a second paper drive by which they estimated they can raise $300 to contribute toward a club house fund, and they are asking citizens to bring their old newspapers and magazines, bun-

$4000 Already Raised Here in Red Cross Drive

By HELEN A. FIELD

With the drive just under way, $4000 has already been raised in Carmel toward the $25,000 quota for this year's Red Cross War Fund Drive.

The increasing tempo of the war, the greater distances and the larger number of servicemen as the war builds up to its climax, make this the most important drive in the history of the Red Cross. Since 1940 the work of this great organization has increased 21 times. During the year just passed the number of men in the Army and Navy has doubled. In 56 theatres of war the Red Cross is actively at work, while at the same time it is aiding the families of servicemen at home. In 1942 help was given to 525,000 servicemen or their families but in the past year that figure has increased to 2,500,000. The need is great—greater than it was a year ago. Who knows what it will be during 1944? Our way lies clear before us. We must give. The time is now — March — proclaimed Red Cross Month by the President of the United States.

In Carmel may be seen evidences of the work Red Cross is doing. Posters, window exhibits, Red Cross War Fund Campaign Headquarters provide information and opportunity. Those in charge of the Drive have better plans than ever before and feel that the outlook is very favorable. The quota for Carmel Chapter is larger than last year's due to the greatly expanded services of Red Cross. The quota of Carmel Chapter is our quota and every resident of Carmel will want to take part in putting it over the top.

Fred Godwin Files For Airport Board

Fred Godwin, Carmel city councilman and hotel owner yesterday announced his candidacy for membership to the Monterey Peninsula Airport board of directors in the election April 11. He is to file for the vacancy of General D. W. Hand who may not run for election because of his status as a retired Army officer.

Other members of the board whose term expires have indicated their intention of running for election: Henry Zaches, Seaside, for the four year term; Dr. James Finley, two years; C. S. Olmsted, Pacific Grove, four years. Godwin has also filed for the four year term. Charlie Frost, Monterey, is the only hold over member.

Parents Hear of Lt. Col. Schull

Word that their son, Lieutenant Colonel Edson Schull, was commanding a tank outfit on the Anzio beachhead, Saturday, February 19, when the enemy advance was turned back by the Allies, reached General and Mrs. Herman W. Schull here through a radio news flash by Daniel de Luce, A.P. war correspondent in Italy.

An account of Schull's part in the Allied repulse of the Germans three miles south of Carrocito, a front page story in the Washington Post on Monday, February 21, reached the Pine Cone-Cymbal office via Pfc. Andre Princeau, another Carmel boy, serving as an airplane mechanic with the 16th Photo Unit at Bolling Field, Washington, but at the moment undergoing treatment for an arthritic hip in the base hospital, where the name of Lieut. Col. Edson Schull, Carmel, California, leaped out from the page he was reading and caused him to comment: "That fellow seemed to have had a good share in saving the Rome beachhead for us! Good old Carmel!"

An excerpt from the article follows:

"Far forward of the key crossroads, for which the German General Albert Kesselring gambled some of his best reserves, is the fightingest outfit of all the American Infantry in the beachhead. The Americans' big daylight attack—which had been held off un-

Miss Dean Speaks on Pan-Americanism at Altar Society Meet

By CARRIE E. FRANKLIN, Secy.

The National Council of Catholic Women were the guests of the Carmel Altar society, an affiliate, on February 25, at Crespi Hall, the program centering about Pan-Americanism. Mrs. Jessie Kinlock, Deanery president, conducted the meeting and gave reports on Chaplains Aid, Tubercular Ward at the Salinas Hospital and recommended several books to the study clubs.

Mrs. Marie McKinnon, Diocesan president of the National Council of Catholic Women, read a message from the national president, also giving a report on the Catholic youth movement. She announced that the convention would be held in Tulare in April. Mrs. Elsie Martinez, president of Carmel Deanery, expressed her appreciation at the number of out-of-town members present under such difficult transportation conditions and welcomed all to Carmel.

Speaker for the afternoon was Miss Harriet Dean, who gave a paper on Pan-Americanism, stressing the good neighbor policy with the South Americans, a better understanding of their problems and recognition of their culture. Miss Dean spoke of the establishment of the Inter-American Institute by Bishop Edwin O'Hara of Kansas City to further this cause. She closed her address by reading selections from several southern poets: The Idyll, by Osdaldo Bazil of the Dominican Republic; Songs of the Gaucho, by Jose Hernandez of Argentina; Stars, Jose Asuncian Silva of Columbia; If a Thorn Wounds Me, by Amada Nervo of Mexico.

Textiles and native garments woven and made by the Guatamala Indians and samples of old Mexican Indian handicraft were displayed and pamphlets on the various countries were distributed. Serving of tea followed the program.

The next meeting will be held at Monterey on March 17, when the election of Deanery officers will take place. Carmel and Pacific Grove will assist the Monterey Deanery as hostesses.

Missionary Movies On March 9 Will Show Leper Aid

Making and rolling bandages to be used in treating victims of leprosy in different parts of the world has been followed as a project for more than fifteen years by members of the Carmel Missionary society. Bandages have been sent chiefly to hospitals in the Orient and in Africa through the American Mission to Lepers. Financial contributions to the organization from all the churches go to maintain the hospitals and to support sufferers of the disease who are unable to work.

Moving pictures showing the attractive surroundings in the leper settlements will be shown at the Mayflower Congregational Church in Pacific Grove.

The public is invited to attend this meeting on Thursday, March 9, at 2:30 p.m. These are not "horror pictures" showing the pitiful condition of severe cases, but rather the pleasant conditions made possible by humanitarian persons under whose ministration many victims of the dread disease recover.

Red Cross

By HELEN A. FIELD

This is a good time for the resident of Carmel to go "window shopping," for in ten store windows are to be seen reminders of the work done by the several units of the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross. The chairmen of the various units and their helpers have been busy making these interesting displays for some time, and, in rain or sunshine, have placed them where the shopper can stop to admire as he goes about the marketing. He will be impressed by the indications they give of the great service to the sick and the injured in home and hospital, to the cold and hungry the American Red Cross is performing on the home front and overseas.

From time to time on these pages the special activities of the units are given in some detail, but now it will perhaps serve to give the names of the units whose exhibits may be seen and whose work goes on day after day the year around. They are: Home Nursing, Surgical Dressings, Jr. Red Cross, Production, Staff Assistance, Camp and Hospital Council, Disaster Relief, Gray Ladies, Home Service and Nurses' Aides.

The business people who graciously made it possible for us all to see these exhibits by allowing us to use the window space have found this way to help us understand how many things the Red Cross is doing. They are thus supporting the War Fund Campaign as anyone who understands the Red Cross activities better because of information found in the exhibits will surely do.

Roster of Service Families To Be Assembled Here

Under the sponsorship of the Service Wives' Information Center a roster of all service families living in Carmel is to be made to enable Army and Navy people to locate their friends, according to Mrs. A. V. Arnold, chairman. With the frequent changes of station a newcomer to Carmel may have old acquaintances in the community and not know it for months. When this roster is compiled, service families may contact each other with greater ease, as it will be available at the office of the Service Wives' Information Center which is to be opened in Carmel soon.

The Red Cross War Fund committee workers will assist with the assembling of names, and all service families are requested to give to the Red Cross representative who calls on them their full name, with husbands' rank or grade, wife's given names, address and phone number.

These names will be turned over to the Service Wives' Information Center and will be used for no other purpose than the above stated. It does not obligate the signer in any way. The cooperation of service families and War Fund workers will greatly facilitate the compiling of the roster, and will be much appreciated by the registry and locator committee.

Fred Hart for Congress

SALINAS will have a congressional candidate in this year's election fracas. Fred J. Hart, well-known, highly respected, intelligent and friendly citizen, is the vouched for aspirant and he enters the race with the practically unqaulified approval of the entire district. It is with considerable pleasure that this newspaper recommends serious consideration of all voters to Mr. Hart's place on the ballot. Not one in the entire district is better qualified to go to Washington. No one has a better "in" there or knows more about internal Washington and all its ramifications. He would enter the congress as a veteran "in the know" rather than as a rank freshie wearing a green cap. Fred Hart has a wide acquaintanceship in this district through his many business associations and close contact with farmers. He is an orator of note, always speaking with a vividness of purpose and on a plain unadulterated topic. He speaks in language any layman can understand. His success has come through close adherence to the American principles of life; namely, earn it and save it. He cherishes his heritage in this land of the free and wants us all to enjoy the same fruits as long as we live or as long as the Stars and Stripes are our democratic symbol.

Fred Hart will have opposition. Politics work that way. All we need do, then, is admonish thinking people to think and after thinking, vote right. We dare not make many more mistakes in congress! It's high time we dealt the spell binders a blow at the polls, and it's high time we get down to the good old fundamentals in our selection of candidates to represent us.

til the Germans appeared to have lost momentum—was by massed General Sherman tanks and a strong force of infantrymen. This correspondent had to hike two miles across muddy fields and slippery ridges in order to reach an observation post and almost every step could have been made on fragments of German shells. In a brushland occasionally pounded by German armor-piercing shells, Lieutenant Colonel Edson Schull of Carmel, California, mapped the progress of his medium tanks beside a camouflaged half-track.

"'It's a field day for us,' he said, 'We caught the enemy off balance and we really pasted him. We've had practically no losses of equipment. Boy, oh boy, how we've plowed through!'

"The soldiers' spirits in the beachhead are high. The Americans and the British know they can take Kesselring's stiffest punch without going down. They're proving they've got plenty of sting in their own counterblows. All the shooting didn't get the Germans their hearts' desire—the beachhead. It's further than ever from their grasp."

Lt. Col. Schull was sent overseas in May, 1942, and participated in both the preparations for and the invasion of Africa in November of that year. Since the fall of Tunisia he has been continuously active in the Italian campaign. His parents, General and Mrs. Herman W. Schull, establish- their home in Carmel at Ninth and Carmelo in 1938, following General Schull's retirement after 40 years of active duty. A recipient of the Distinguished Service Medal for his part in World War I, he was recalled to duty with the Chief of Ordnance in Washington, D. C. immediately after Pearl Harbor, where he served until his release on September 30, 1943, at which time he and Mrs. Schull returned to live in Carmel.

Their elder son, Colonel Herman W. Schull, II, is now serving with the Engineers of the 14th Air Force in China under General Chennault. His wife and their two small sons, Gunner and Herman W. Schull III, also came last fall to make their home in Carmel.

Symonds-Barrows Concert Proves Highly Enjoyable

By DAVID MARRS

Last Sunday the Musical Art Club presented two of Carmel's own artists, Dorothy Symonds, pianist, and Ann Barrows, contralto. They are musicians of fine ability and in good form even if their main daily duties are outside the realm of music. A responsive audience seemed to feel the sincerity and pleasure of the performers in the music they made.

Dorothy Symonds plays with ease and assurance. In the Haydn Variations and the Chopin Etude in C Sharp Minor she was at her best, where well-rounded phrases were expressed in good singing tone. The Fantasie Impromptu by Chopin was effective and brilliant. Mac Dowell's Novelette and Valse Triste did not seem to strike home as pieces of especial worth. However, the Polonaise by the same composer has a thrilling theme and was played with style, but lacked somewhat in big sweep and power.

Ann Barrows sings with rich voice and deep feeling. These make a result which bids toward a high degree of excellence. The group of German lieder was done with intensity and understanding. An die Musik by Schubert was exquisitely done. There followed a modern group in which Scott's Lullaby was outstanding with its marvelously controlled pianissimo. Miss Barrows has learned to color her voice well, the soft beauty of the upper register as well as the resonant lower tones. There is control in the voice and power in reserve.

Forest Theatre Picked For 'Teen Club

dled and tied to the AWVS office on Dolores street near Seventh. Those who cannot deliver the papers should phone 1050, so the students can call for them.

Richard Hebb, representing the AWVS, asked the Lions club Tuesday evening for co-operation in the 'Teen Age Club project and will approach the other organizations in the town to appoint a representative to form a committee to work out a plan that will meet with the approval of the city council and to consider ways and means of raising funds to finance the project.

The mayor, in commenting this week on the project said that the use of the Forest Theater for a 'Teen Age Club room need not interfere with the use of the theatre for dramatic productions, that the alterations that would be necessary to get the place into condition for a club room would be improvements to city property. He also indicated that if the money could be raised through the efforts of organizations and private citizens, and a practical plan worked out for operating the club, the city council would probably be willing to lease the Forest Theater for $1.00 a year to a responsible committee in charge of the club.

LIGHTS OUT MONDAY

A tree, roots loosened in the storm-soaked soil, fell across a power line here Monday evening putting out the lights throughout town. The P. G. and E. repair crew got power through the first circuit within twenty minutes, with the entire town back to normal within an hour and a half.

ed the town and wound up at the same place it is borne home that if the people of Carmel want to provide a club room for its young people, and they certainly show every indication of being so inclined, they are going to have to pass up dreams of perfection and make the best of what can be had.

As for financing the project, the rough estimate of costs of getting the place into repair, $2000, seems a large sum considered in a lump, but broken down among the various organizations of the town, it can lose some of its discouraging proportions. The students have demonstrated their sincerity and eagerness to do their share by pledging the $300 which they will raise in their paper drive. Individual citizens have offered to help in furnishing and equipping the rooms. The AWVS is now approaching the various organizations and groups asking each that a representative be officially appointed to form a committee that can sit down with pencil and paper and work out ways and means of financing. And the organizations so far approached have shown every willingness to cooperate.

With the representatives of all the groups in town getting together in harmony to work out a project which they sincerely want to accomplish, the chances of success are very good no matter how numerous and impressive the difficulties may seem at first glance.

Judge Ray Baugh Hands Down "Not Guilty" Verdict

Judge Ray Baugh's verdict in the Rudolph Von Urban case, not guilty, was handed down Wednesday in Monterey justice court, the culmination of a trial that began December 7 and excited statewide interest because of the sensational nature of the testimony.

Von Urban, charged with practicing medicine without a license, is "psychological advisor" to the superior court of Monterey county. He is not licensed to practice medicine or psychiatry, and it was in connection with his private practice of what the state charged was medicine and Von Urban insisted was "sexology" that brought him into court.

Rowntree Will Run for Re-Election; Allen Knight a Candidate

Creery and Fred Godwin, the latter is circulating Rowntree's nomination paper for him.

Allen Knight, though one of the younger candidates, can claim to be the oldest Carmelite among them as his residence here goes back to 1901 when he used to come as a boy with his aunts, the Misses Alys and Agnes Miller for four months during the summer season to occupy the "red house" (in later years a landmark until removed to make room for the Sundial Court Apartments).

He made his permanent home here in 1928 after serving as a seaman in the merchant marine and worked for the Pacific Gas and Electric Company until after Pearl Harbor; then he was called into service as Commander of the Naval Unit of the State Guard. With the demobilization of the unit, he returned to Carmel in June of last year. He is now associated with Peninsula Properties in Monterey.

He lives on Sixth and Guadaloupe with his wife, Adele, and his children, Alys, Allene and Allen. On the property is the "ship house" he has built out of salvage from 69 wrecked vessels containing marine relics that have made it a show place.

Knight, in his years of residence in Carmel, has participated in many local dramatic productions and recalls with especial enjoyment parts in Metz Durham's "Carmel Nights" and "Yes, Doctor."

He has served on the sanitary board for ten years, surviving successfully three elections. As for his feeling about the town, he "wants to see Carmel kept the same simple village we all like so much." He favors a recreation project for the young people.

Miss Nell Thomas Appointed Registrar

Another registrar of voters has been appointed for Carmel, Miss Nell H. Thomas, who will be at the Community Information Service offices in Las Tiendas Court every day 8:30 to 5:50 except Saturdays when the hours are 8:30 to 12:30 and Sundays.

Miss Camilla Daniels, in Eben Whittlesey's office in Las Tejas building and Don Staniford at his drug store are still taking registrations. Registrations for the city election closed March 2, but citizens have until April 6 to register for the consolidated primaries to be held May 16.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

We Dood It !

Monterey high school was dealt a punishing if not a humiliating blow Tuesday afternoon. Carmel defeated their highly-touted basketball team 25-23. This was a narrow margin to win by it is true, but it is generally believed that Carmel out-played, outfought and out-shot Monterey whenever the occasion called for it.

This was not an easy game by any means, but it was won as cleanly as possible. Monterey started some rallies to score points, but they didn't get anywhere with such fine players as Russ Bohlke, Milton Thompson, Howard Lockwood, Bruce King and Dick Uzzell to stand in their way. Many say that the main reason Monterey was defeated was because of the bottling up job done to their ace, Ronald Rico. That may or may not be true.

The first half opened with Carmel sinking two buckets before Monterey had scored a point. Several fast breaks took place, but they were stopped by the expert blocking from both sides. Mike Colleto was the scoring sensation of the first half by sinking two swishers in a row from way out. The rest of his shooting during the game also was exceptionally good. Ronald Rico couldn't seem to get loose to sink some of his famous shots. The game was fairly fast and the referees were having a hard time to call all of the fouls as fast as they happened. Russ Bohlke ran away from the Monterey team to put Carmel way out front and with the aid of Milton Thompson this lead was insured. The first half ended with Carmel ahead 14-8.

The second half started with Monterey opening up with a rally for points. They approached Carmel, but they couldn't quite get past them. Then little basketball took place and some football almost took over. The referees quickly put a stop to it by stopping the game until everyone got seated and quieted down a little. Tension was high when either side got the ball. Fast breaks, beautiful ball handling, and good fakes were the attractions of the second half. Carmel was leading 23-19 at the end of the third quarter. Monterey started a rally trying desperately to overtake Carmel. Carmel sank a quick one when they needed it and they won 25-23.

This Was It

Yes folks, this was it, the last league game for Carmel Hi.

Our boys went over the hill to tangle with P. G.

The Carmel "Babes" tried to take at least the last game, but were met by stiff competition. Our boys tried hard although they just couldn't get on "the ball."

A lot of our loss was due to the absence of our usual high point man Art Templeton who had a cold and Del Wermuth who was overweight.

Both of these boys are first string material. The game came to an end with the Carmel Babes trailing to the score of 23-15.

Our heavyweights put a nice shiny finish on our last league game for us.

The game started with Russell Bohlke drawing blood for the Padres first. After this the boys really showed the spectators what team-work really was like.

From the first quarter to the last Carmel was out in front.

Russ Bohlke was high point man with 15 points to his credit.

The game came to a close with Carmel on top to the score of 32-24.

New Student Body Constitution

For the last five school days, from the 21st to the 29th of February, the legislature has been in session discussing the proposed new constitution for the Associated Students. This constitution was drawn up largely through the instrumentality of our new Commissioner of Assemblies, Walter Warren. He presented the bill and has held down the floor through the last five days of the proceedings.

Collaborating with Walter Warren are the following: Attorney Angelo Lucido, Judge Arnold Pilling, President Russell Bohlke, and Vice-president Howard Lockwood. The new constitution takes out many of the loop holes of its predecessors, and has clearly defined the principles and ideals of good government. —Stanley Ewig

Girl's Sports

Basketball for girls opened last Friday the 25th, with the Frosh and the Sophomores playing. Both courts in the gym were used as these two classes each have two equally divided teams. The Seniors, however, have no team at all, because there are not enough girls in their class available; although they may be able to scramble one together at a later date.

The second game will be played on March 3rd between the Freshmen and Juniors; then the Juniors will play the Sophomores on the 10th of this month. The final games to be played between the two top teams will be played on the full court the 17th of March.

The captains for the three classes are: Freshmen, Dianne Tait and Joan Carr; Sophomores, Joan Dekker and Alice Morehouse; Juniors, Florita Botts and Joan Janda.

"Many Things Are Curious to See"

Adrian Beach, artist, conscientious objector interned in a work camp in England writes to Mrs. Elizabeth Cass, curator of the Carmel Art Gallery, his impressions of the effects of the bombings on the people as he sees them. His letter, printed below, is not the first of his writing to appear in The Pine Cone Cymbal, as he wrote an article for the feature page last year explaining his theory of art at the time his picture "Adam's Broth" had been barred from the Gallery and when the town was split in controversy over whether it was art or pornography.

Smart's Heath, Mayford Nv Working
Jan. 16, 1944

My Dear Lib:

I think about Carmel a good deal although events tend to make a return to that place of my lovely friends a long road. I am doing unskilled handwork or rather odd jobs of all sorts at this Danish market garden. It's a profit making concern so that quality does not count for much. We have been collecting pig manure, road mending, glass house construction, concrete mixing (by hand shovel) brick laying, carpentry. After the Army, and this, I realize that I can labour and overcome almost anything with will power and patience, but at times I have been low, seeing no escape from a life of frustration. By a happy revelation, the Christian manner of life in every day contacts seems to yield abundant happiness as soon as the mighty self and its tendency to pride have been entirely forgotten in preference for a communal contribution of behavior. One's way of life draws out an immediate response in other people, the slightest things are actually very important. It is so desparately important to take a long view and to see oneself contributing to a better world now and in the future by breaking down friction and accepting the burdensome distress-behavior of others. It's not so easy, but I think that that is the meaning of the word charity.

Well, I am drinking in the mystery and dampness of this exquisite climate for all I am worth, drinking and drinking the delicate moods of people and landscape. In a while I shall feel subtle and like a child again, laughing and free and as if on the wings of poetry or great music. Britain was always a very hard school, but what a good school! An atmosphere of restless moderation.

I am really very encouraged. My school friend, Denis Harman got hold of my paintings and hawked them to the Pinacotheca 20 W. 58 St., N. Y. C., a nice gallery just off 5th Avenue before the park and it is arranged that my work be exhibited May 15th, 1944 to May 31, 1944. Some unknown person has given $100 for expenses, so I am amazed that my unhappy results with my oil paint could arouse such sympathy, especially at this time when the cup of irony is pretty full.

Two years ago Julien Levy of that gallery offered to give me a show but besought me to wait for two years before making a debut. How more than right he was for only now is one beginning to have the courage and patience for an uncompromising style. I'm trying to finish this huge composition "Martha's Muddle" to send it along. It is not such a bitter muddle as "Adam's Broth" for in this picture imagination points the way to a release and happiness. It is so disappointingly difficult to paint only at night and in small parts of the hurried lunch hour. There are the blissful weekends but by Saturday and Sunday one is, as it were, finished, and just recovered enough on Monday to start again. As you say, keep on keeping on with all the dash and joy and vibrant bravery that is in one to achieve.

We shall be glad when air raids and other inevitables are over. Many things are curious to

MOTHER . . . TODAY

Let us keep one day that our sons remember—
Let us keep laughter in the heart of youth!
Let us not seal the fountain-head of reason—
Let us keep limpid-clear the wells of truth!

You, who have fought against the world's unwisdom—
Who know that kings are mad and fights unfair;
You, who love freedom and resent aggression—
Look to your strongest mother-weapon . . . prayer!

Never less-Spartan than the ancient mother—
Mother . . . today, with War's beak in your heart!
Give of your tolerance, your understanding—
Love is the greatest gift you may impart!

Mothers of sons, when darkness shall surrender—
After the noise and hell of battle cease;
Out of this night, this mad world's hour of chaos . . .
Help them to find the sunlit paths of peace.

—BLANCHE DEGOOD LOFTON.

I FORGET THE NIGHT

I forget the night
And what came after,
I remember voices,
And distant laughter,

I forget what happened
Or why we were there;
The scent of magnolias
Was heavy on the air,

There were wind-shaken rushes
By a ripple-broken pool;
Far fringe of stars
And the air edging cool.

I forget what we said
Or where we stood;
I remember only that
Our talk was good.

—BETTY HASKELL.

SO IT IS SPRING . . .

The time of pollen-dust is come again,
Lining with sulphur-drift the pools of rain—

The seldom snow is seen upon our hills;
Swift through the winter grass come daffodils—

The sky is all things that betoken pure;
No word describes it for no words endure—

The little crosses stand upon the pines
With Easter holiness. The fresh light shines—

So it is Spring again. The natural year
Is not deflected from its path by fear;

Conformant with its own great law it moves
And in perfection lives and breathes and loves;

And we above, of all earth's family,
He never found the law to set us free.

REVIEWS

NESBITT REPORTS

Phil Nesbitt, Carmel artist, for almost two years in voluntary exile in the East and Middle West, in answer to the Pine Cone's request for a report on himself and how he finds art in Chicago writes:

Things are war-struck in the art world. The present show on at the Institute has sacrificed all its old standbys for junior, elementary examples of soldier art work, holding to the incorrect theory that persons of a higher age bracket have no right to be painting legitimate works of art in the face of war pressure. However, there is one outstanding artist who happily and successfully paints on and on, creating mountains of impressive works. He is Frank Hoffman, an American and Chicago artist of unusual ability and scope. Primarily he is a mural painter, and in painting murals he covers an enormous range and variety of subject matter, not only on the scope of its application but in the impact too. Personally, he is big and jovial, robust and pagan. He is a virtual golgotha of a man. Alive to the verities of art and life, he rolls along taking every mood in his stride.

As for myself, I recently went to an Army air base in Tennessee where I did a little painting. My work appears now in the magazines in the form of advertising art. Here there are no petty squabbles about the whys and wherefores of why an artist paints but only a wide open demand for more and more production. However, this does not apply to the fine arts.

It's of interest possibly, for you to know that I have two children's books about to be published. One is a reprint of my first book, Trum-Peter's Tea Party, and the second one is a new book called Nicholas Needlefoot, which is all about an egoistic kitten with sharp claws who wins the battle of cat life. It will be advanced as a second Ferdinand the Bull. Then there is another book pending concerning a fat elephant named "Trumpie."

Nicholas Needlefoot can be ordered by appreciative Carmelites, from The Follett Book Publishers, 1255 South Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. By March 1944. Also the others. It is basically a Carmel-written book, for I produced it two or three years ago while abiding in that most heavenly natural place, Carmel Woods.

THE MORGAN EXHIBIT

BY PEDRO DELEMOS, Director of the Stanford Art Gallery

The Stanford Art Gallery's main exhibition room has its walls enriched with Miss M. de Neale Morgan's exhibition of paintings. These subjects done in oil painting include a group of tempera, which are only two of the several art mediums with which Miss Morgan is skilled and always proficient and varied in using.

This exhibition is proof of the artist's range of color expression and versatility but her main accomplishment is that of the strength and vigor of her technique which is so often only identified with that of the male of the species. As the artist signs her name M. deNeale Morgan most visitors or critics viewing her work naturally suppose it to be the work of a man and are "taken back" when informed that "M. deNeale Morgan is a lady."

This strength of art expression, technical accomplishment and constant production is part of Miss Morgan's history in all that she undertakes for her art has not prevented her from participating actively in civic and community activities wherever she has lived. Member of one of early California's families and related to many names identified with the progress of San Francisco, Oakland and Monterey's history she has been active in the art growth and development of all these zones.

SUNSET SCHOOL NOTES

A Stormy Night

The wind was howling,
The thunder was growling,
The rain was splashing
And the lightning was flashing,
Now all among these noises so loud,
Sat a little boy with his head bow'd
He had fallen asleep while sitting there
In his little wooden, painted chair.
The lightning flashed and the room lit up
And there on the hearth slept his little pup.

The thunder stopped and the rain did cease,
So, let us leave them to sleep in peace.

Our Drives

We are having a book drive. It is for the soldiers when they are on the ships in a convoy. We are also having a drive for games for soldiers. They are supposed to be games that wounded men can play with their hands. Already we have two jig-saw puzzles, a Word-O-Gram Game, a Monopoly Set and four books. We are also collecting games and toys for the Eskimo children.

—John Gibbs, grade 6

Sabotage

Six days ago I went out to try my new sled on the hill. My brother had dug big holes in the ground and covered them with pine needles. I forgot that he had done that and went racing down the hill lickety-split. The first time I jumped it. I did it again and the same thing happened. Next time it was different. Just as I got going fast my right runner caught and the sled twirled around. I landed in the hole, but the sled landed in the repair shop.

—Edward Goodrich, grade 6

A New Boy

We have a new boy in our room. His name is Bill Lyon. He is from Steele School, Colorado Springs, Colorado. His father is a colonel in the infantry. He is stationed at Hunter Liggett Reservation near Camp Roberts. Bill says he likes this school. He has been in thirty eight states. His hobbies are collecting insignias, stamps and studying chemistry. He has been in Panama, Cuba, Porta Rica, Toboga, Moro Island, Florida and many other places. He expects to go back to Florida after April.

From Java to America

When the Japs came to Java, my daddy took us to Australia in his plane and we just missed the trouble. We stayed in Australia awhile and then came to America on a big ship, the "Mariposa."

—Jolie Van Brusen, grade 3

Chinese Party

On Friday, the third grade had a Chinese party. We had made chop sticks and decorated them. Then that afternoon we cooked some rice and put the rice in cups and ate it with our chop sticks.

—Dale Parsons, grade 3

New Boy in Fifth Grade

We have a new boy in our room named David Finley. He came from Colorado Springs, Colorado. We hope he is enjoying Carmel and Sunset school as much as we enjoy having him with us.

—Robert Drew, grade 5

My Trip

On February 12, we left Colorado Springs, Colorado and started for California. We took the Southern route to come here. The first night we spent at Santa Fe, New Mexico, and the next at Gallup, New Mexico. The following day we went over very many mountains and had some rain. We spent that night at Kingman, Arizona. The next morning we started out in a hail storm. The hail turned to snow and got worse. We were afraid the car would slip and skid on the road so we went back to Kingman and waited to see if it would clear up. We started again about 9:00 a.m. We went up to Boulder Dam and crossed to California. The U. S. Forest Rangers escorted us over by going in a car behind us. We were allowed 20 miles an hour.

That night we went on to Bakersfield, California, and from there to Carmel. I like Carmel very much. We came here because my father is commanding the 89th Division.

mately from two to eight semesters), you are on your way to a commission as ensign in the navy. The V-5 program, Lt. Hamilton explained, is strictly for those boys interested in aviation. In entering upon this program the candidate goes to Boot Camp for a few months, then to pre-flight, primary, and advanced training, after which he is rewarded with a commission. This complete training takes all of twenty six months.

Lt. Hamilton stressed the necessity for both physical and mental fitness. He stated that to hope to get into V-12, you must be in the top 50% of your class and have a letter of recommendation from your principal.

Lt. Hamilton's talk was tremendously interesting, and when he finished speaking, the meeting was thrown open to questions. Thus the boys had an opportunity to settle many matters that had previously puzzled them.

Mr. Getsinger stated that if any of the boys wished to take the test, it will be given on March the 15th here at the high school.

—Emile Passailaigue

Cadet Corps Activities

The boys in the Cadet Corps are marching right along to bigger and better assignments. Under the instruction of Captain Getsinger, the cadets have commenced a course in the use of the rifle. This is a very long course, but as much time as possible will be devoted to sighting, positions, and care of the rifle. The actual firing does not take place until after this course is completed. At the present moment, no rifles of Army issue are available, but it is hoped that some will be released for the use of the high school cadets in the near future.

—Angelo Lucido

Captain Marsh

Our Assembly last Friday morning was outstanding for two reasons. One reason was the good news Howie Lockwood gave us concerning the new Recreation Center. The second reason was our guest speaker, Capt. Marsh from the Presidio of Monterey Reception Center. His talk was on how these Reception Centers function. There are about 35 of these induction centers all throughout the United States. It is surprising the terrific amount of necessary blunders that were made during the First World War, but now in these induction centers all the information about the individual is sent to Washington and filed there by eliminating so many of the mistakes and wasted energy that went on before. Captain Marsh stressed the need for good leaders in the Army. He gave a brief outline of the inductee's schedule for his five day stay at the center. It was an interesting talk on a subject most people know nothing about, and don't appreciate enough either. After the talk, Captain Marsh answered a few questions of import to the older boys who expect to be going into the armed forces in a short time.

Nancy Tiedemann Weds

St. John's Chapel, Del Monte, was the setting on Saturday, February 26, for the high noon ceremony performed by the Rev. Theodore Bell which united attractive Nancy Ruth Tiedemann and Ensign John H. Stalnaker.

Before an altar decorated with calla lilies and ferns, the bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Henry Tiedemann, for many years an executive with the Del Monte Properties Co. She wore a white marquisette gown of old-fashioned, hoop skirt design with Juliet cap and fingertip veil and carried a frilled bouquet of white orchids and bouvardia. Her attendant was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Clarke Tiedemann of Salt Lake, attired in blue marquisette and carrying an old-fashioned bouquet of pink rosebuds and sweet peas.

The groom's brother, James Stalnaker, was best man and ushers were Ensign Richard Patrick, Ensign George Bruehl and the bride's brother, Sgt. Clarke Tiedemann.

Present also for the wedding were the bride's mother, Mrs. Henry Tiedemann, wearing blue crepe with matching hat, darker blue accessories and an orchid corsage; the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Stalnaker, brother-in-law, sister and niece of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. George Foxworthy and Miss Barbara Foxworthy, all of San Diego.

A wedding breakfast for family members and a few intimate friends, held at Del Monte Lodge, followed the ceremony.

The new Mrs. Stanaker attended Douglas school and Mills College, where she was affiliated with Sigma Phi sorority. Ensign Stalnaker attended San Diego State College, where he was a member of Epsilon Eta fraternity and was graduated from the Naval Aviation school at Corpus Christi, Texas. He is now stationed at Monterey Air Base.

Following a brief wedding trip, for which the bride wore a three-piece suit of aqua blue with brown accessories and an orchid corsage, the young couple plan to make their home for the immediate future on the Monterey Peninsula.

A Cake to Remember

When Miss Patricia Walker returns to her home in San Francisco next week after spending the past three weeks in Carmel as the house guest of her Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority sister and former room mate at U.C.L.A., Miss Elizabeth Houghton, and the latter's mother, Mrs. Eleanor Minton James, she will leave behind her among other pleasant memories that of a huge Valentine cake, of devil's food, 20 inches in diameter, four layers high, decorated with hearts and roses, which she received by cable during her visit from a captain now overseas in the air force medical corps. It was a cake capable of serving about a hundred people, and in addition to being shared with the boys at the USO, it played a leading role at the surprise birthday cocktail party for Miss Elizabeth Houghton, at which Miss Walker was also a guest of honor, given by Mrs. James at her Monte Verde street home on the late afternoon of February 16. Assisting the hostess were her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hare and the decorative hors d'oeuvres were presided over by her little niece and nephew, Gay and Wallie Masten. Present also to celebrate the occasion were Captain and Mrs. J. J. Haberer, Mr. Eben Whittlesey, Miss Betty Wheeler, Lt. William Corey, Miss Barbara Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd, Mrs. Madeline Chatton, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Draper, Sgt. G. W. Steed, Mrs. Hal Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Geisen, Mrs. Norman McLean, Sgt. Paul Hale, Mr. Sam Colburn, Mrs. Elliott Vining, Miss Joan Tait, and Mrs. Katie Martin. Later in the evening Mrs. James was also hostess for a small birthday dinner at the Blue Bird, at which were present her daughter and house guest and members of the family.

Miss Patricia Walker is at present on a short vacation after holding a position with the San Francisco Red Cross Blood Bank for the past two years. She is the sister of Dorothy Walker, whose column, Everybody's World, appears daily in the San Francisco News.

Micaela Du Casse to Denver

Mrs. Ralph Du Casse, the former Micaela Martinez, left yesterday for Denver where she will rejoin her husband, Staff Sergeant Du Casse, now awaiting new orders relating to the Army Special Training Program at Regis College. Mrs. Du Casse completed last Friday the painting of a mural for the assembly hall at the Monterey Auxiliary Naval Air Base, which is to be used as a chapel, social hall and for motion pictures. The new panel, 10x5, is a compendium of religious, aeronautical and naval symbols. The central portion depicts the figure of Christ, dominating the fighting planes; on one side is the Archangel Michael inspiring and guiding the pilots, and on the other the Angel of Peace guards a group of mechanics on the ground. Dedication ceremonies, under the direction of Commander Thomas Chapman, will take place late in March.

S. F. Week End

Ensign and Mrs. William Robertson spent the past week end in San Francisco, where they visited with Mrs. Robertson's mother, Mrs. I. G. Emanuel, at present engaged in Red Cross work at Pittsburg, and had a brief reunion with their friend, Miss Viola Jones of Boston, recently arrived on the West Coast with the Overseas Division of the Red Cross Recreational Service.

Col. Weller Now

Richard C. Weller, Cliffside, N. J., was promoted recently from lieutenant colonel to the rank of full colonel, Army officials announced last week. He is an assistant Chief of Staff for Plans and Training in the aviation section of the Caribbean Command. His wife, Mrs. Helen N. Weller, and daughter, Judith, live in Carmel.

Col. Weller came to Panama in May, 1943, from an Antilles air base of which he was commanding officer. Before he left the United States for overseas service, he was control officer at the Oklahoma City Army Air Depot. He was a pilot for United Air Lines when he was called into active service in 1935.

After graduating from Fordham University in New York City, he trained as a pilot at Brooks and Kelly Fields. He received his reserve commission as a second lieutenant in 1932.

Guests at Hoover Ranch

Lt. and Mrs. R. W. Fleagle were week end guests at Rancho del Oso, the Santa Cruz Mountain home of Mr. T. J. Hoover, brother of the ex-president and emeritus Dean of the Engineering Department of Stanford University. Other guests of Mr. Hoover were his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. McLean, the former Miss Hulda Hoover.

Radio Honors for Anne Barrows

Miss Anne Barrows, gifted young contralto who appeared as soloist last Sunday for the Musical Art Club at the Carmel high school, made an enviable record during the past week among the 275 contestants heard in San Francisco for the Hour of Charm's nation-wide search for The Voice of America. Auditions were held from Monday through Thursday between the hours of 9 a. m. and 10 p. m. and Miss Barrows went to San Francisco on Wednesday, accompanied by her teacher, Miss Rachel Morton. Following her audition, she was selected among 16 semi-finalists, to sing again; she was still leading when the group was reduced to five, and her voice was pronounced the best one registered in the medium of classical songs. Miss Barrows had not come prepared with a "jazz" number, however, and in this field she bowed to the final winner.

With Candles and V-Mail

The seventh birthday of William Putnam Colvin III was celebrated amid red, white and blue decorations on Saturday afternoon, February 26, at his home on Dolores and 11th. Games and music furnished the entertainment and in the center of the refreshment table was a great Jack Horner pie in the form of a drum, from which each of the small guests pulled a very special toy. Ribbons to each plate ended in red, white and blue baskets of candy, with a flag for the girls and boats with flags for the boys, and as Bill cut the candle-decked cake, his friends sang "Happy Birthday to You." To make the birthday celebration complete, a V-mail letter of congratulations arrived on the very hour of the party from his father, Captain William P. Colvin II, now serving on the medical staff of a station in New Caledonia. Guests for the afternoon were Sally Garlick and Philip Marcus, prize-winners in the games, Ginger Murphy, Sara McCloud, Harriet O'Rear, Gunner Schull, Lee Smith and Bill's brother, Richard Riley Colvin. Assisting his mother as hostesses for the occasion were his grandmother, Mrs. W. P. Colvin, Sr. and her daughters, Mrs. W. A. Rubenstahl and Miss Macki Colvin.

"Side Saddle Cowpuncher" Discusses Her Book

tations of the New Mexico idiom. When she boasted that no cowpuncher had ever "run away from her" it was necessary to explain that the term implied an equestrian rather than an amorous feat. In spite of her best efforts, the blurb on the book jacket described her prowess with the lariat by proclaiming, "Give her a bit of clothesline and in her hands it becomes as deadly as a rattlesnake."

In all the time since her book appeared and while it continues to enjoy its wide success, Mrs. Cleaveland recognizes as her only fighting words the question, "When are you going to write another?" True, she has made two other attempts, but her central character in one instance sat down and refused to be manipulated, and in the other, the script was consumed in the recent fire which burned to the ground a Navajo lodge on her New Mexico ranch. "Perhaps I am a one-book woman," she shrugs cheerfully.

Mrs. Cleaveland had ample opportunity to know her New Mexico. She was born in 1874 in Cimarron, the eldest of three children of William Raymond Morley, construction engineer on the Santa Fe railroad who built the first line from Colorado to New Mexico through what was formerly known as Raton Pass, now Glorieta. Mrs. Cleaveland's mother drove the silver spike at Nogales, marking her husband's work in uniting old and new Mexico by rail.

Those were the days when Cimarron was the Wild West, when Clay Allison, rival of Billy the Kid, often shot up the town with a hail of bullets. William Morley was killed when his eldest daughter was eight years old, and with her mother, her sister Loraine, now Mrs. L. Reynolds, and her brother Bill Morley, later to become a national football hero when his alma mater, Columbia University met and defeated Yale, went to live on an enormous cattle ranch in western New Mexico, fifty miles from the railroad and post office, in the region enlivened by Geronimo's last raids.

Here Agnes Morley grew up, receiving no formal education until she reached the age of fourteen and was sent to live in the household of Rev. Charles Gordon Ames in Philadelphia, a home of supreme culture, whose frequenters were such personages as Edward Everett Hale and Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

"It was like catapulting a coyote into a drawingroom," she explains. "While the Reverend Ames' young daughters, Alice and Edith drained the bottle of culture, I only smelled the cork."

Be that as it may, she entered the University of Michigan by examination, attended two years and graduated from Stanford University in 1899, among that early group including Herbert Hoover, the Irwin boys, Wallace and Bill, Anna Strunsky, and Newton Cleaveland, young mining engineer whom she married on the afternoon of commencement day.

It was with this early Stanford group that Mr. and Mrs. Cleaveland had their first glimpse of the Monterey Peninsula, away back in 1896, making Pacific Grove their headquarters for oft-repeated visits, and picnicking on the beach of Carmel-to-be.

Now their time is divided between a home in Berkeley and a small ranch in New Mexico. One son, Captain Norman C. Cleaveland, is now serving in the U. S. Army Air Corps; a daughter, Mrs. Loraine Keffer, is married to a lieutenant in the Navy and another, Agnes Morley Cleaveland, II, lives in New Mexico, while the youngest, Mrs. Claus Wohlers, makes her home in Montana.

When Mrs. Cleaveland, speaking before the Book Fair in New York, Philadelphia and Boston following the publication of her book, was introduced as the 1941 equivalent of a Pistol Packin' Mama, she supplemented this by her own preferred characterization of herself and No Life for a Lady—"Side-Saddle Cowpuncher Rides the Literary Range."

see. So intense that one hovers like a dreamer in reality. Terrible thoughts take place. Friends, people, loved things, are removed by the great flood. Yet wild goldfinches, magpies, rooks, swans and all things that fly and creep take their courses. Already wild daffodils are budding. The mornings, white with frost and mist pulse with spring sunshine. Dawn moons and little stars move with tender encouragement out of the night into immense vistas of tinted cloud. Nature is so confident. It matters little whether crops always come up or fail. Always there is an abundance and survival. The oak tree has 600 plagues a year, yet it is the stoutest of British trees.

It is now almost midnight after a long day digging pits and filling them with concrete so I must sleep to face tomorrow's toils. Give greetings to all friends, to Carmel and the spirit of the place, Ever Adrian.

P. S.—An architect associated with a postwar community center idea wants me to decorate in oil the village hall at Daneshill Sussex as a start. He thinks there will be a lot of work elsewhere in England if I prove reliable. So perhaps if I survive bombs, hazards, etc. I shall eventually achieve my desire to contribute a testimony for this distracted age, to echo the Marie de Medici Room at the Louvre by Rubens or the simplicities of Piero della Francesca at Awezzo.

Report to the Nation:

When the 4th War Loan Ended–

Our Fighting Men Kept Firing!

News that the 4th War Loan goal of $14,000,000,000 has been reached and passed will cheer American boys from Italy to the Marshalls. But they will hear the news not only over sputtering radios but over the din of battle:

For the war still goes on with ever mounting fury. And that means that our War Bond buying must go on unabated, too.

To the millions who bought extra War Bonds in this drive, all America gives thanks.

To the 5,000,000 and more volunteer workers who contributed their time and abilities to help make the drive a success, your Government and your fighting men give thanks.

To the thousands of patriotic newspapers, magazines, radio stations and networks, members of the motion picture industry, the outdoor industry, advertisers and agencies, retail stores, banks, post offices, credit unions, building and loan associations, labor unions, fraternal organizations and farm credit associations, the Nation gives thanks.

Once again Americans have proved their determination to "back the attack" to the full.

But the attack goes on

Look at Italy. When the 4th War Loan drive ended at midnight February 15, the drive on Rome was still going on. American boys were still crouching in water-filled foxholes—clinging with bitter and bloody tenacity to a beachhead the Germans were equally determined to take back.

Thus on the same midnight that witnessed the end of the 4th War Loan drive, the hands of the clock met like shears to snip the lives of scores of American boys engaged in the March on Rome. And the fight goes on.

Look at Japan. At the same hour that saw the end of the 4th War Loan, the "March of Death" that shocked all America to a realization of Jap brutality to American prisoners of war —that march was still going on.

To liberate those heroes of Bataan and Corregidor before it is "too late," other American boys stormed and took the Marshalls on the road to Tokyo.

But that March to Tokyo—still 2,000 miles away—that march goes on.

And we on the home front

—can we afford to stop now that the 4th War Loan is history, while our all-important job of supplying and financing this costliest war of all time still goes on? We have won a home front battle here, yes. But just as our boys continue even more vigorously once they have established a beachhead, so we must continue to build on the success we have already achieved.

The Bonds we bought last week and the week before are today's exploding bombs and shells, and spent bullets can never be used again. We must provide for tomorrow, too. The need for new guns, planes, ships and tanks goes on.

For the war still goes on with ever mounting fury. So while all of those on the home front who have bought Bonds and have worked hard to make the 4th War Loan drive a success have earned the Nation's thanks, none of us can afford to forget that our home front job, including Bond buying, also still goes on!
